by instalments and credited to the temple funds by mistake instead of depositing the same as Pudwat for carrying out the donor's object.

2. The Pudwat in question comes under ~~the~~ class (2) of Pudwats viz., sums lent by one individual to another with the stipulation that the interest should be paid to the temple. (Page 82 of the Mysore Manual) and it seems to have been recovered from the party by the Amildar under cir: no. 3 of 56-6-72 (Page 82 of the Mys: manual).

3 The Dy: Comr recommends that the amount may now be transferred to the name of Ranganna, the daughter of the donor, as prayed for by her, for the amount being invested in the Savings Bank or the 8 Stake Loan for the maintenance of the nandadeepa, as intended by the donor.

4. The point for consideration & orders is whether the amount may, instead not be transferred to the name of the Taluk Amildar and invested in the 7 or 6½% Stake Loan & the interest accruing thereon be included permanently
